Alameda to Fix Rate of Interest

Alameda, Jan. 23.-Fixing of a rate of interest on city money on deposit at banks has been postvestigation of prevailing rates, according to Mayor Frank Otis. The Mayor, City Auditor F. J. Kroll and City Treasurer Leon Ader will fix the city's rate of interest

Mayor Otis explained that the postponement was taken in order to determine whether, or not the present rate of 2% per cent interest on active and 2% per cent on inactive deposits should be increased by the city.

Motive Behind the Move

An Indianapolis banker, who has false teeth, attended the bankers' convention at Chicago. Sometimes some member of the local delegation would suggest they walk up one flight of stairs, instead of waiting for the elevator. This was when they were at the building in which the sessions were held. But this he refused to do.

One day, though, they had come down from the eighth floor to the hotel dining room. Just as they started into the dining room the banker put his hand over his mouth. "My teeth," he gasped. "I left them on my dresser. Oh, I hope no one has seen me."

Then he turned and walked up every one of those eight flights of stairs after his missing teeth.

Origin of Jewish People

A member of the British house of commons, Col. T. S. Williams, advanced a new theory as to the origin of the Jewish people. His remarks occurred in the course of a debate on the Palestinian budget. The present-day Jews, he declared, are not the descendants of the biblical "Children of Israel," but are descended from the Chazars, a Mongolian people who lived in southern Russia and were converted to Judaism in the Ninth century, says the Detroit News,

Find Their Loneliness

Dispelled by Wireless In British Columbia lumber workers and other lonely individuals are installing wireless sets, which enable them to catch news and concer programs from the great broadcast ing station at Vancouver, and even from the distant cities of Portland and San Franciso.

The Indians also have taken enthusiastically to wireless. Indeed, in many ways the Red Indian is becoming up-to-date. He cuts his wood with a petrol-driven saw, and it is only the poorest of tribesmer who do not own their motor-

There is scarcely an Indian home which does not possess a gramophone of some sort. When the Indians leave their villages to go fishing they take their musical instruments with them. They start the machine in the morning and only turn it off as the last of the household steps into

Fat Men Endure Heat Better Than Thin Ones

That the hirman body, in a state of rest and in still air, cannot endure indefinitely a temperature higher than 90 degrees Fahrenheit with 100 per cent relative humidity, is said to have been determined in experiments' recently conducted by government scientists. In the course of the tests it was noted that the heavier and stouter men lost more weight than the lighter and thinner ones, but as a rule could endure ones, but as a rule could endure the heat for a longer period and complained less of exhaustion, says Popular Science Monthly. Loss of weight was found gradually to in-crease with higher temperature. Whenever the subject drank ice water he immediately gained in weight and in all cases, within 22

EGISLATIVE LETTER By C. W. TURNER

Sacramento.—The apportionment isme, notwithstanding the importance of the budget and numerous other bills, is occupying the center of the legislative stage, and will do so probabiy for the balance of the session of until some definite solution is reached

The Los Angeles delegation has let it he known that if at this session their districts do not get the repre-sentation to which they are entitled a movement will at once be inaugurated to divide the state.

That threat, however, does not seen likely to accelerate matters very much In fact one representative of Alameda county said to your correspondent that he would welcome such a solution of the problem. He said: "There is the widest difference between the northern and southern end of the state in every way; not only physically, but in the character of the people and I have long thought it would be a wise move to divide the state into Northern and Southern California."

Southern members admit that such an idea is not new with them and that the demands at each session of the legislature for a duplication of the public institutions now in the north for the south, such as asylums, re-form schools, agricultural fair grounds, university, etc., have had the aim of ultimate separation in view.

The south now has everything except a state prison and that will be proposed either at this session or a the next.

But separation will take years to accomplish and in the meantime the question of representation for the south in future legislatures is de-manding urgent attention and is be-ing hotly debated behind the scenes, after the recess it will ap pear in the committees and on the floors of both houses. It will mater ially affect legislation and is viewed with anything but pleasure by those who have special bills which they hope to pass this session, and fear combinations against them.

Another topic that is being ver generally discussed is the question of roads. There is a proposition to issue bonds to the amount of $150,000,one bonds to the amount of $100,000,-000 for the building of new roads, but that does not meet the approval of the governor and it is hardly necessary to point out that no bill can pas which he does not approve. The pro-posed increase tax on gasoline would only keep up the roads already built and do very little extra building. The governor takes the ground that the state should only build and maintain the trunk lines and principal high-ways, and that local roads should be built and maintained by the counties. He thinks that there are now at least 1,000 miles of roads under state control that should not be state highways at all, and if they were returned to the counties and the counties required to keep them up, the saving would enable the state to build such extra roads as are properly state highways and that there would be money enough to care for them when built. The friends of the administration are trying to discover some means by which the views of the governor can be carried out. But although there has been much discussion of the subject, no tangible scheme for unloading the undesirable roads on the counties has been discovered.

While the new budget of the gove ernor allows increases in nearly every department of the state government naturally there are local demands which it does not satisfy and therefore assemblymen and senators who represent interests which want more than they are offered in the budge are very much alarmed at their own political prospects, as a result. They can of course secure from the legis lature the increases they desire, bu what is the use? Under the budge provision of the constitution the gov-ernor can reduce or entirely wipe out any appropriation made by the legis-lature, and any increase that the leg-A appropriation of $25,000 is asked by Assemblyman Hartranft of Fuller-ton in a bill to the legislature to provide funds for a survey of the Santa Assemblyman and the says emphatically that the appropria-tions shall not exceed the badget.

There are already a large number cial bills carrying appropria tions for this or that project, but the governor does not hesitate to say that he will approve no extraordinary ex-penditures; which means that most of the "specials" will amount to

An additional $15,000 appropriation from the reclamation fund to carry on the investigation of the so-called salt water problem in the Secramento river-San Joaquin river delta region in California, to be met by a like sum from California interests, has been requested of Secretary Work by Sen tor Shortridge.

Shortly after noon he stumbled into a quicksand pit and be-fore he recognized the nature of his surroundings had sunk to his knees in the shifting, sucking sand. Every ef fort that Everson made to extricate himself pushed him deeper into the pit, until finally the sand had reached his waist and was climbing steadily.

any new school would naturally be, but constant revision and reorganization have established a definitely out timed course of study, together with a training manual for each subject to the chief of the motor transport corps at Washington. He received verbal instructions to proceed to Camp Holabird and organize a motor transport training school. On July 7, 1019, the organization of the school was commenced, and by September 2 of that year most of the machinery and equipment necessary for the instruction and the scope of subjects will list be out of place. Instruction in that no work of this nature had everbefore been attempted on so large a scale by the suny.

The school was officially opened on Beptember 5, 1919, by the secretary of war, with a total enrollment of 442 enlisted men as students. This body of men at that time was distributed throughout ten departments of the school, and since that date there has been a steady flow of students through the institution. Today the enrollment is not quite as large, but the same opportunity exists for the enlisted man, in the institution. Today the enrollment is not quite as large, but the same opportunity exists for the enlisted man who desires to train himself that he can become a skilled workman to any of the school is to produce men.

This school is a comparatively young institution. The advent of motor transportation in the army called for effident and economical operation and maintenance of the same in the field.
To provide for this necessity it was decided to establish a school for the rendered a knowledge of motors essential. In July, 1919, Col. George P.

MAKING GOOD IN A SMALL TOWN

Real Stories About Real Girls

By MRS. HARLAND H. ALLEN PANSIES FOR PROFIT

4P ANSIES for thought," the flow-er-lover says; yet, paradoxically, when it comes to raising a garden specialty for the market she seldom thinks of them.

A little pansy-specialist I know tells me that the pansy-is the best of all flowers for the girl-gardeer who is a novice at her work. This particular pansy-specialist lives in a town of only 5,000 people; yet she never has to go outside it to sell her flowers—so I take her word for what she says,

"All you need is a south window and some pansy seeds," she tells peo-ple. "You put your seeds in some good earth and the sunshine does the good earth and the sunshine does the rest."

"I get the very best seed." she explained in more detail. "Then I bore holes, for drainage, in wooden boxes. Then I plant my seeds, exactly according to the directions on the packet. The seeds should be planted neither too deep nor too near the surface, and should be pressed down well. They should be watered regularly with a fine spray, and kept warm.

"When the first plants appear, they should not have too much light. They should be kept partly covered. And when the little shoots get a good start, they should be transplanted into another box. After that, all the pansy-grower, needs to do is to give the plants proper amounts of sun and air."

If the pansy grower prefers, she may, when she transplants the young plants, put them into the garden instead of into other boxes. In the winter time, the beds should be lightly covered.

The pansies may be sold in baskets. They may be sold in bunches, as boutonnieres for use at club dinners and parties. But when they are sold in bots, the pansy-grower will probe.

and parties. But when they are sold in pots, the pansy-grower will probably make her best profits aince the flowers keep better in this form. She could use either ordinary pots in smallest possible sizes; or get diminutive fancy pots or holders.

The girl with an artistic eye and a skillful hand will increase her sales still further by artistic arrangement of the flowers in these little centerpleces.

of the flowers in these little centerpleces.

As for her market—she may advertise in lier local papers, or have a "pansy sale" and tea in her own home. She may succeed in selling her flowers to candy stores and to the town hotels. If there is a florist's shop, she can usually find a sale for her wares there. Sometimes grocery stores or other shops will exhibit them, and sell them on a commission.
The girl-gardener may be fortunate enough to get an order from a florist in a large neighboring city for cut flowers to be sent two or three times a week. By working out different methods of selling, she will be able really to apply the phrase "pansies

Several allied institutions, cooperating with the United States government, are projecting the most complete survey ever made of the oceans of the earth. One or more ships fitted with latest scientific equipment will not only map the bottom of the ocean but will study the composition of the water, its density, temperature, and map out currents which affect the distribution of marine plant and animal life. Five-sevenths of the earth's surface is covered with water and this water area can produce more food than all the land can ever be made to yield, it is said.

Child Logic

Child logic is of the direct kind. The other day a little girl was told by her mother that they were to have new neighbors-an old lady and gentleman, an carl and his countess. "But the earl has lost his money," said her mother, "and they are no longer well off."

"But can't he sell his title,

"No, dear, you can't sell a title." "But I don't see why, mother. Sir — bought his—I've heard you say so; so why can't the earl sell his title?"-London Evening News.

Agriculture, livestock, mining nd lumbering are the four basic ndustries of the west, and they all bid fair to reach a high point of stability and success.

indignantly resented the supposed Mining has been through its impeachment of his stock of inforslump and is back again on the upgrade. Silver, lead, zinc and copper are commanding very good prices.

Chief among the reasons for the return of prosperity is the settlement of European reparations through the adoption of the Dawes This opened up new markets for all lines, bringing increased consumption of United States products, which in turn always mean good prices.

Drunkenness Scientifically Defined The noted crimidal lawyer, Clarefice Darrow, is defending Joseph F. Kyle, who is charged with murder while intoxicated. Darrow placed expert Dr. Samuel J. Parks on the witness stand to show that Kyle was under the influence of liquor. Dr. Parks in answering the question, "What are the three degrees of intoxica ion?" replied: "There are three degrees," the physician replied. First is a slight acceleration of the pulse, an inclination to talk freely and exaggerte, and a perking of the knees

'Second, is a middle stage when all the symptoms of the first degree are exaggerated. Third, the power of speech is ost, equilibrium is destroyed completely, and there is a rapid advancement toward a state of coma."

Dangerous Hardware

Loaded firearms, or even unpaded guns or pistols, kept in homes, are usually easy of access, and always offer ready means for the impulsive act of murder or suicide. With no revolver in the house, the mother of Dorothy RIlingson would no doubt still be living. A pistol is an unecessary and dangerous piece of hardware, and sooner or later restrictions will be placed upon the use of these conveniently kept weapons that cause so many murders and subsequent grief in households.
